350 Questions to
Build Your Toddler's
Word Skills

DECK 1

A Guide for Parents

Brain Quest® creates an atmosphere where children strive to do well and take pride in demonstrating what they know. Designed especially for toddlers, My First Brain Quest differs from the Brain Quest games for older children in the following respects:

1. The parent or adult is far more involved in the play-and-learn process.
2. The child is not expected to know the answers. Questions are intended to start a dialogue, not to test or drill.
3. The content is arranged according to themes and subjects that illustrate My First Brain Quest's unique goals: language development, communication skills and social interaction.

The Decks

Covering basic activities in a child's daily routine, Deck One offers a full day with Max from the time he wakes up until bedtime. Max also introduces your child to seasonal activities, including a trick-or-treat outing on Halloween and a snowy day at the park. Deck Two explores the world of animals and plants as you and your child accompany Max to a farm, a zoo and an aquarium.

Full-Picture Cards: Each section in the game begins with a full-picture card. You'll find three or more suggested questions at the bottom, but feel free to make up your own or just talk about what you see on the card: "Here we are in Max's bedroom. Do you see Max? Show me where he is."

Suggestions for Getting the Most Out of My First Brain Quest

Always encourage your child to find-and-point to the answer. Also try to relate the picture to everyday experiences: for example, "Where is your bedroom? What do you wear in bed? What do you do when you wake up in the morning?"

Three-Picture Cards: Most of the three-picture cards in each deck develop vocabulary and syntax. For instance, the top picture might ask for the name of an object while the middle picture explores the concept of "where" and the bottom picture identifies an action. In addition, your child will learn to interpret actions or situations shown in picture form—a challenging thinking skill for any toddler.

Verbal Skills

You and your child will communicate in ways you will both enjoy, reinforcing the type of social interaction that has been proven essential in the language development of two-year-olds.

If your child is just learning to talk, you might begin by describing each picture and relating it to his or her own experience. For example, you can say, "Look, here's a picture of a clock. It goes tick-tock, tick-tock. Do we have a clock in our house? Yes, there it is. Can you say 'clock'?"

If your child is very verbal, you can begin by reading aloud each question and answer and having your child repeat them after you. Then reverse the roles. To add to the fun, give silly answers to the questions—your child will enjoy correcting them.

Five Steps to Success

1. Begin with Deck One.
2. Choose subjects familiar to your child.
3. Let your child's responses guide the game.
4. Play only a few cards at a time.
5. Stop while you're still having fun.

Play and Learn

- Questions are arranged in color-coded categories of two to three cards each.
- Play each deck sequentially, or spread the cards and let the child choose the questions. See the Guide for Parents card for more ideas on how to play.
- Questions are meant to encourage further discussion of each category. There are no answer cards.
- Let the child point, answer verbally, or both. Be sure to allow his or her interest and attention span to dictate the length of the game.
- A tote bag is included in the box. It's perfect for taking Brain Quest on the go!
